

Discover How You Work Best with DISC

September 23 | PACE Young Professionals

The DISC is a behavioral tool that measures your habits and preferences in the workplace.

What makes you tick at work? How do you communicate? How do others experience you? And how can understanding yourself better help you become a stronger teammate, leader, and professional?

Join us September 23 for an interactive DISC Training led by Dr. Adrian James, Associate Dean of the Business School at Park University.

PACE is covering the cost for the first 20 registrations so register early!

The DISC assessment normally costs $20, but PACE will cover the assessment for the first 20 people who register.

If you've taken DISC before, take it again because this assessment is about where you are today.

You may have changed since you took it in the past. Your experiences, responsibilities, confidence, relationships, and work environment can all influence how you approach situations. This is your opportunity to take a fresh look at who you are right now.

Register by September 11th so we have time to get your assessment to you.

Then, take the assessment as soon as possible:

- The assessment will only take you 4-5 minutes
- Find a quiet place with no distractions.
- Answer based on how you are in your current work environment.
- Don't answer based on how you think you should be.
- Don't answer based on how you are at home or with family and friends.
- Most importantly, answer based on who you are today.

Please complete your assessment early so Dr. Adrian James has time to review the results and prepare to share her insights with the group on September 23rd.

This is more than one meeting.

The DISC assessment will become a foundation for our Young Professionals program throughout 2027.

We'll use what we learn about communication styles, strengths, differences, and relationships as we continue our work together. What you discover on September 23 won't simply be something you learn and forget—it will become part of the conversation as we grow as professionals and as a group.

Come prepared to learn something about yourself. Come prepared to understand others. And come prepared to be part of the PACE Young Professionals program throughout 2027.

Take these steps:

1. Register by September 11th.
2. Take your assessment as soon as you receive it.
3. Come September 23rd ready to discover what your results can teach you.

The first 20 registrations receive the $20 DISC assessment at no cost through PACE. Those that register after the 11th, or after the first 20 will have to pay $20.

